Stronger Together

As your healthcare IT partner, we are deeply committed to support your work while coping with the evolving COVID-19 pandemic and the challenges it brings to care delivery. Continuity of radiology reporting activities is crucial. To help care networks provide fast, robust remote reporting capabilities, Agfa HealthCare offers Enterprise Imaging options to extend your reporting boundaries across the wide area network, to empower additional staff working from home or supplemental staff brought on board.

Remote radiologists can Extend the Power of the Platform to:

- Deploy both technical and workflow options to support remote reporting with a user experience identical to being in the hospital with identical workflows, hanging protocols and integrations.

- Employ worklists that are specific to suspect COVID triage and need immediate attention.

- Leverage escalation workflows to manage the prioritized reporting of these suspect studies.

- Deploy Agfa or 3rd party remote reporting services.

- Leverage the Enterprise Imaging collaboration tools to communicate with technologists, other radiologists and other clinicians for improved, collaborative care.

- Employ a full workstation or a portable laptop with diagnostic display support.

BARCO

Partnering with Barco®, Agfa offers complete solutions for remote diagnostic reading:

Agfa HealthCare offers validated laptop and workstation options depending on your needs.

- Select your choice of monitors such as the economical Barco® Nio 3MP or the premium Barco® Coronis 6MP to use with either a laptop or workstation.

- For laptop users, the Barco® eGFX adaptor provides connectivity to support multiple monitors.

Relocation Assistance: Technical best practices with experienced technical staff can be provided for those customers who want to move existing stations to new (remote) locations including best practices and knowledge-transfer on configuring the workstation from LAN to WAN/VPN support.
